Additional benefits of planning your future with University of Phoenix

Exceptional flexibility

Choose to attend campus classes or remain on tribal lands, surrounded by family and community support while attending classes online. At just 5 to 6-weeks long, you'll focus on one subject at a time, allowing you the flexibility to balance school, family and work.

Graduate faster

Apply to have your work and life experiences evaluated for potential college credit towards your degree.

Dedicated support every step of the way

As a University of Phoenix tribal student, you have a team dedicated to your success from the very first call through graduation, and beyond. Our Tribal Specialists serve the cultural and academic needs of our Native American, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian students, and can help you apply for tribal scholarships, obtain employer tuition assistance and identify other scholarship options.

University of Phoenix supports tribes, tribal enterprises, and student success

Your Tribal and enterprise leaders expressed the need to develop more tribal members who can fill critical roles in education, healthcare, counseling, and nursing. University of Phoenix is providing educational opportunities for you to earn the education necessary in those hard to fill positions, and we have the staffing, resources, desire, and expertise to help.

Our team of Tribal Specialists understand the non-traditional educational barriers, which results in our tribal students progressing through their 4th course at a higher rate than our non-tribal students.
