

Don't blow up your computer!

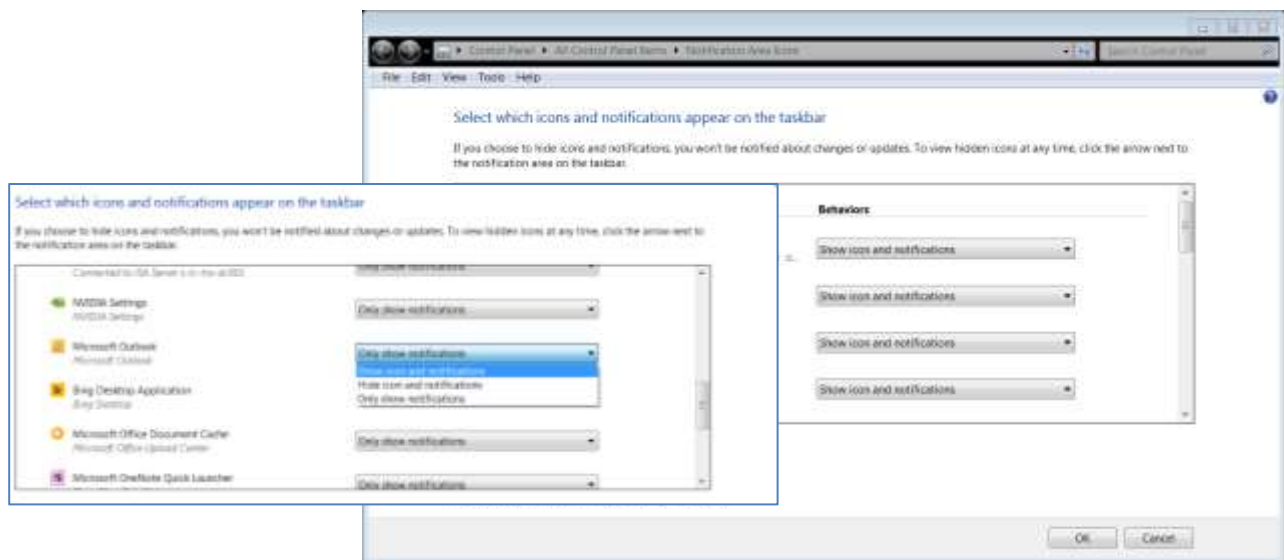

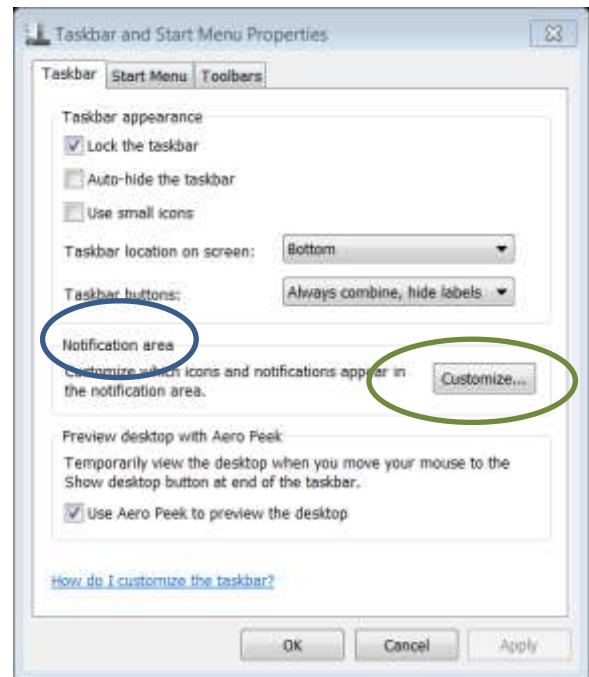

Task Bar Modifications

There are a quite a few additional modifications you can do to make the task bar work for you.

If you right click anywhere on the task bar at the bottom of your screen and select Properties you can make changes to things like how buttons appear, the location of the taskbar, locking the task bar and what notifications appear on the taskbar.

Some choices for notifications include show icons and notifications, or just notifications. In this example under Notification area Customize... has been selected and specifically Show icon and notifications for Outlook.

Once you make the changes select OK. If you decide you don't like the changes you can always change back to the original settings.

Have fun!
